One Hundred Miles In Memory Of Emma

A Warminster woman has completed a 100-mile walk in a week in memory of her daughter Emma, who would have been 40 last month.

Penelope Harrison from Imber Court, walked from Reading to Bristol to raise £1,700 for The Brain Tumour Charity — a cause close to her heart as Emma died in 2010 from a brain tumour at the age of 32.

Penelope was accompanied by a little bunny, 'Fluffy' given to Emma when she was a baby – a precious toy, which spurred her on every step of the way.

Penelope said, "I decided I wanted to do something at this time because it would have been Emma's 40th birthday last month. Fluffy was my companion for the whole trip. He was Emma's constant friend throughout her childhood and even went to university with her. He was there with memories of Emma and the reason for the walk. He even had his own walk T-shirt."

The 100-mile challenge was a mission that Penelope was committed to achieving and she stuck to her training schedule, come rain or shine. As the date of the walk drew closer, she increased her mileage accordingly – determined to do her best for the charity.

She said, "I wanted to help the charity as it has very little funding despite the fact that brain tumours are the biggest cancer killer of children and adults under 40.

"Emma was diagnosed with a brain tumour when she was 23 and over the space of five years, had five brain tumours. The last one was inoperable.

"The walk was quite a challenge and I flagged a bit mid-way. I followed a route alongside the Kennet and Avon canal for the first stage from Reading to Bath and then took the Avon River trail to Bristol. I stayed in a bed and breakfast overnight whilst in Berkshire and after that a friend from the United Church brought me home each night, then took me back to the start point the next day.

"I felt quite elated at the finish. My family presented me with a chocolate medal at the end, which was fantastic. Everyone has been so supportive with their sponsorship, which is wonderful as the funds are much needed."

The Brain Tumour Charity aims to halve the harm that brain tumours have on quality of life and double survival within ten years. It is funding clinical trials and novel methods of drug development to help drugs get to the clinic.

More than 102,000 people are currently living with a brain tumour in the UK and this year over 5,000 will lose their lives to a brain tumour. Money raised will be used to invest in new technologies that will aid the early and accurate diagnosis of brain tumours.

Wobble Gets Wackier

The 10th annual Warminster Wobble in the park offered the chance to try out something completely different such as this crazy caper on a bicycle made for two.

Tree Takes Root As Building Goes To Rack And Ruin

A touch of greenery can enhance an urban environment, however, as nature reclaims the eyesore that is 3 High Street, surely it is time to grasp the nettle and take some serious action.

The debacle of the listed building, which is up for sale with planning consent for development, continues with calls from the town council to de-list it and for immediate enforcement as a tree thrives amid the decay and branches creep out of the render.

At a recent town development committee meeting, councillors discussed a motion received from Cllr. Rob Fryer, as agreed at the recent Annual Town Meeting, 'to form a working group to push for progress on resolving the problems with No. 3 High Street'.

However, it was highlighted that councillors had been trying for years to resolve the problems with No.3 High Street and members felt it would not be beneficial to form a working group.

Councillors demanded that the tree issue was addressed as a matter of urgency – the owners of the building and Wiltshire Council would need to be contacted to resolve the problem. Councillor Andrew Davis proposed not to proceed with a new working group for No 3 High Street and members agreed unanimously.

It was agreed that Councillor Davis would contact Wiltshire Council planning enforcement to inform them about the tree and to establish if the building could be delisted.

There was also a lengthy debate about cosmetic restoration and using a shroud to cover the scaffolding.

Councillor Macfarlane proposed town clerk, Fiona Fox, established costs for a shroud and contacted the owners of the building to see if they would contribute. The committee supported the proposal and asked to be updated at the next town development meeting.

TENNIS

Charity Fund Raiser

Corsley Tennis Club staged an American Tournament on a pleasant afternoon at the Memorial Field last Sunday.

Eighteen players contested some good quality sets, resulting in Group A being won by Jenny Bishop and Sonia Glen. Goup B produced a tie between Ann Walker and Diana Hale and Michael Clarke and Sue Kerfoot.

Some excellent cakes were then sampled and it was announced that in excess of £50 had been raised for charity. The afternoon was organised with flair and precision by Mesdames Bishop and Glen, writes Andrew Hillier.

BOWLS

Girl Power Prevails At Bowling Club

The ladies are showing the men the way in both the Norwest League and the Seidal League. The ladies remain unbeaten after winning both matches in each league.

The men have, however, relinquished their hold on their normal bottom of the league in both the Three and Four Rink Leagues and indeed, are pushing for a mid-table position with their latest win over local rivals, Blue Circle, with a resounding victory by three shots in the Three Rink League on Monday night.

Their spirits were not dampened by the heavy rain and through the efforts of all, revenge for the previous week's loss to Blue Circle was the outcome, writes Mel Waller.

It had been duly noted that several key members had escaped to sunnier climes.

In the aptly named Tea and Biscuits, the Warriors are now third only on shot difference, from the team in second place with three wins out of four. The Wolves have been less successful but have played a game less than other teams in the fourth division.

A mixed friendly match against Trowbridge Town was played on the afternoon of the Royal Wedding. It was suggested that Warminster still had tears in their eyes through the emotion of the Royal event. This did not help their accuracy and they were subsequently well beaten by the visitors who were obviously made of much sterner stuff.

Club roll ups on a Thursday afternoon and Friday evening have been well supported with bar takings being well up due to the participation of certain members of the club.

The apparent widely held belief that bowls is for 'fuddy duddies' is being proved wrong – at least at Warminster Bowling Club.

Imperial Charity's Future Looks Bright

The Imperial Charity is in the process of having their accounts finalised for the last financial year but can report yet another very successful year with record charitable activities.

The past year has seen the charity award grants and give donations, mainly to special needs schools within Wiltshire, but also to organisations such as Alzheimer's Support for their new centre in Warminster, which is to open this month.

In addition, the ever popular monthly coach trips saw a total of 1,100 people enjoying a day out to either a coastal resort, places of interest or a Christmas Market.

The other major activity the charity carries out is the provision of entertainment to care and nursing homes throughout the county and the past year has seen a total of 258 performances organised and financed. Individuals in need continue to be supported by heavily subsidised items of furniture required to set themselves up in their accommodation.

Bob Summerfield, the Business Manager, said that this continued high level of activity has been made possible not only by the hard work of all members of staff and volunteers, but by the continued generosity of donors who donate their high quality unwanted items. Also the fact that the charity's reputation for high quality goods at very reasonable prices in both their shops is spreading and people are visiting more frequently, even travelling from some distance away.

Bob said the new financial year has started well with the exciting news that Edington Priory have selected them to be their charity of the month, with all the benefits that can bring. He said he is hopeful that after giving a short talk about the charity at their service on Sunday, the congregation may feel disposed to fill the collection plate a bit more!

Coincidentally, they have also been selected by Waitrose in Warminster to be one of their good causes for the month which hopefully will also raise funds that Imperial can put towards their activities.

Bob said it goes without saying that he would encourage everyone to pop into Waitrose and drop their green token in the charity's slot when they have completed their shopping. He went on to say that the charity is so very grateful to have been selected by the Priory and Waitrose and feels proud to receive this recognition.

The new season's coach trips have started well with tickets selling out within two days. As much as the charity would like to provide extra capacity, it has not been possible to acquire more than the three coaches per month that are currently provided.

Members of staff are hopeful that the level of donations will be maintained this coming year. As Bob said, they can never get enough of the quality items they require, from clothing, bric-a-brac, white goods and furniture etc. and would like to remind everyone that they can collect all items at a convenient time and also, of course, deliver any items purchased.
